"A Little Voice"

Just lock me in time
Maybe take me away
Something . . . Anything
Not to face these choices today.

"But you can't resist the Future, called an eager voice from within,
it's all you have to turn to it's a new life to begin.

I Know Tomorrow's a mystery — not secure and hardly familiar yet Tomorrow's what you make of it face your fear and overcome 'er.

I know, too, there'll be mixed tears softly streaming from your eyes but the truth in reality is

You don't have to say "Good-bye" . . . Because the past always travels with you refuses to be left behind — sentiments in the heart, memories in the mind."

There's much more yet to come.
Have faith in yourself — you'll see.
The world awaits these talents,
This class of '93.

Anna Salamone-Conso
Principal

As I write this message, I relive those special moments which we have shared with the Class of 1993. What I will cherish the most is the way, as a Class, you came together under adverse conditions to create a cohesive, productive unit. Budget cuts snatched your most precious traditions: no senior class advisor, no yearbook, no senior activities, no graduation at the Bushnell. You decided to react. You organized yourselves, you rallied the community, planned activities, raised funds, and turned all of the negatives to positives. In that process, you grew stronger, gained leadership skills, and came together as one of the most effective and successful graduating classes. Your hard work was so grounded on the feeling of shared respect and concern. You faced the challenges with unselfish service and a positive attitude.

These qualities and your perseverance have endeared you to all of us. The Class of 1993 will be special and will live in our hearts for years to come. Remember that the Bulkeley Family has done its best to prepare you to face future challenges — We love you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Anna Salamone-Conso

Paul Stringer
Executive Vice Principal Senior Class Advisor

It is with pleasure and sadness that I bid the "Class of 1993" farewell. In many ways you have made me proud to have known each and everyone of you. During the past four years we have endured many ups and a few downs.

Hopefully, we have learned a lot from one another and I hope your learning continues as you embark upon new horizons.

It's my hope that you continue to excel in whatever "walk of life" you choose. Hard work, good attendance and perseverance equals success no matter where you go or what you do.

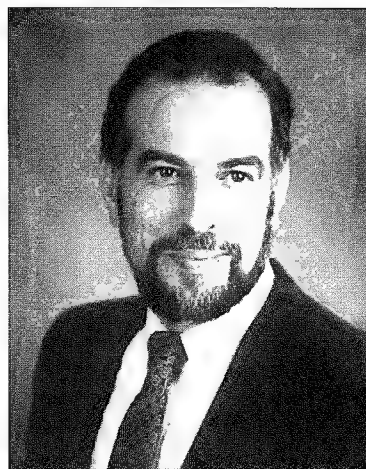

Your turn to become productive members of our society has come. Take this responsibility seriously because those who don't generally end up as failures.

Congratulations to each and everyone of you. I hope that all of you realize your future endeavors. Good luck and best wishes to all of you.

Sincerely,
Mr. Paul Stringer
